On June 12th we are starting our trip North. However our first challenge happened already soon after our start. Suddenly the clutch refused cooperation...

Stranded on a parking lot near Wetzlar, we had to call the 24-hours repair service from Mercedes. It wasn't easy to find a mechanic who was familiar with Unimogs, but after a few hours waiting, luckily someone came for our rescue. Mr Mechanic did his best to ensure we could continue our trip to Iceland. Very thankful to him and his skills we could continue our trip with only 5 hours delay.

Further small hick-ups were unavoidable, but lost antennas and lids or broken cruise control magnets we could repair by ourselves with out any problem. Every day has a new challenge for us...

We enjoyed it so much to see so many friends during our „farewell tour“ North. We should come more often.
