

03.10.2015, Hanstholm (Denmark)

Our arrival in Hirthals is smooth. We first drive downtown to stretch our legs before continue our way South along the coast and through the national park ,Thy'. We have to be in Thyboron only the day after tomorrow, so we have a bit of time to explore Northern Denmark. The weather is great, a real treat. In Blockhus we have a walk at the beach, then continue to Hanstholm.

One of the main attractions in Hanstholm is the battery „Hanstholm 1“ hidden between the sand dunes. 19 bunkers have been built by the German army between 1940 - 44 as part of the ‚Atlantic wall‘ and should guard the opening to the Skagerrak. Underground walkways have been built and it's very interesting to climb around and explore everything.

04.10.2015, Stenbjerg, Thyboron (Denmark)

We continue our way along the coast and through the villages. It's amazing, how many people are still at the beach: Stand-up paddlers, surfer, angler, fisher men, seagulls and other animals...

In Island and Faroe everything was already on winter mode, now we are all of the sudden back to summer.

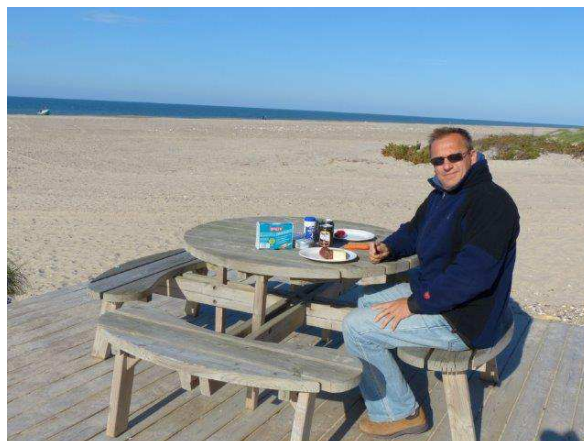

We notice a small boy, who is holding on tightly to the remains of a fish even while walking along the beach. Just like a teddy bear – he won't let go...

In Stenbjerg we visit the former fishing huts at the 'Landingplads'. Today the huts house some museums, but some are still used as storage for fishing equipment. It is possible to walk from the beach through the dunes to the little village of Stenbjerg about 5km away. We do this nice walk and as a reward have lunch at the beach.

In the afternoon we reach the ferry to Thyboron. It all looks very deserted and we are not sure if the ferry will really come... However, as per schedule, the ferry indeed comes once per hour and once the ferry has arrived, all of the sudden more cars are waiting to board the ferry.

05.10.2015, Thyboron, Esbjerg (Denmark)

Since we are already in Denmark, we take the advantage and Werner does a few business appointments. Together with his colleagues we are visiting some suppliers. It's quite fun to arrive with the Unimog on the company parking lot...

06.10.2015, Horsens (Denmark), Flensburg

After the last meeting in Horsens it is already late afternoon, but we still start our return journey and want to reach Flensburg. It's raining heavily and we fight our way on the highway through the pouring water.

Flensburg has a free parking space for camping vans near the harbour. Luckily a good Italian restaurant is located right next to the parking in the industrial area, so we don't have to look for something to eat in such bad weather.

07.10.2015, Bremen, Osterholz-Scharmbeck

It is still raining the next morning as we continue our way South. Unfortunately, we have not much time left and can't stop over in Hamburg – as much as we would like to. We can only send virtual greetings to all our loved ones in the Hansestadt.

However, we have time for a quick stop in Bremen, especially if we are pampered with such a delicious bean soup.

Finally, in the afternoon we reach our target destination for today, the metropolis of Osterholz-Scharmbeck. Here we have another opportunity to show our car to our friends ☺

08.10.2015, We are home!

After one full day of driving, our journey to Iceland has come to an end, we are at home. We have been 119 days on the road and drove a total of 10,557km. Now the Unimog has to be prepared for winter, before the next adventure is awaiting us next year. We will keep you posted!
